

An impressive park

Alex Melvin finds out more about a picturesque Scottish park that's run by a friendly site owner and speaks to its newest park home resident...

Courthill Park is a friendly, family-run park that was established in 1963 and has been in the same family ever since. At Courthill, park owner Christopher Little always strives to make his residents' lives as stress-free and relaxing as possible.

One resident who can testify to this is the park's newest home owner, Kevin Boyd. Christopher helped Kevin settle into his lovely Victory Parkview home earlier this year, smoothing over every aspect of the buying process to make things as simple as possible.

Kevin said: 'I first visited Courthill Park in the summer of 2017. When inquiring about the park I spoke with park owner Christopher.

'Upon my first visit I was very impressed by the well-kept and welcoming driveway into the site in its rural location just off the A76.

'When I met Christopher he put me at ease over a leisurely coffee and a chat.

'There's no "hard sell" within a thousand miles of this park!

'After gathering all of the information I required from Christopher, it was time to actually take a look around the park.'

Not disappointed

Kevin was not disappointed. Courthill Park is a well-established site that feels safe and secure, which was very important to Kevin.

Christopher showed Kevin the few empty plots he had left, which were soon to be redeveloped. Kevin was extremely impressed.

He added: 'After having a walk around with Christopher, I was left to explore and walk my dog at my leisure. I was immediately struck by the tranquillity and the wonderful views from the park.'

Back in the park's office, Kevin was shown a brochure for Victory Homes, where the Parkview models are pre-ordered.

Kevin was shown around a brand new Parkview and quickly concluded that it was the home he wanted.

Now that Kevin has moved in, what does he make of his new abode and of park home living?

He said: 'Having just spent my first week in my new home I am extremely impressed with the attention to detail from both Courthill Leisure and Victory Homes.

'I would like to thank Christopher for his professionalism on the project from start to finish.'

Great pleasure

Mr Little added: 'Since taking over the family business early in 2017, it has been a great pleasure to welcome new residents to my park. I take great pride in doing this.

'We aim to provide a professional experience, from start to finish, using other well-established local family businesses.

'So, if it's a new park home you're after, or just information on the lifestyle, we are always happy to help.

'From all of the team at Courthill, we would like to wish Kevin many years of happiness in his new home.'

Stunning views

Courthill Park enjoys stunning views of the surrounding countryside. It is also only a short drive to the local shops and, with buses running every hour, retirement living couldn't be easier!
